

Jaime Haile obtained her B.A. in Liberal Studies with an area of concentration in Child Development from California State University, Chico in 1998. She continued to get her Multiple Subject Teaching Credential, CLAD the next year. After college, Jaime traveled and participated in an international volunteer project in London. She then decided to combine her love of travel and teaching and obtained a TEFL (Teaching English as a Foreign Language) certificate. In 2000, Jaime traveled to Seoul, South Korea to teach preschool aged students in a full time kindergarten as well as elementary and middle school students in an after school program. After one year Jaime returned to Los Angeles to plan her wedding and begin her life with her now husband. From 2001 to 2007, she taught ESL to international students in the Los Angeles area. In February 2007, Jaime gave birth to her son, Ethan. She is enjoying the joys and challenges that motherhood brings.
